When occasional MBUK contributor Nick Hawker decided to make a bike flick, he wanted to shy away from the usual offerings and focus more on the underdogs of our sport. The result is a DVD that's more realistic than most...

There's action from various downhill and 4X events, including the Sheffield indoor track and the 2005 Bike Show, as well as scenes at Mountain Ash, Cwmcarn, Bringewood and Woburn.

There's a fantastic street/trials section with Tim Pratt in London, and some great one-on-one stuff with Jib Jam winner Craig Jones on his home turf at Newport Skatepark and Caerphilly trails.

Dan Stanbridge, hot tip for 2006, rides downhill in Cheddar and Bath, complete with a nasty slam.

Our favourite section has to be the Fort William slow-mo stuff (with Kate Rogers soundtrack) – it's the quiet before the storm of the greatest race of 2005.

The kooky graphics are ace and, together with a great soundtrack, build the video into defined scenes: it feels a lot like Sprung 6 would, had it been made. It's the best-feeling bike vid we've seen of late – keep making them like this Nick, and you're on a winner...

Slow-mo section Duncan Ferris hitting a tree flat-out, and getting away with it...
